FUTURISTIC HOME: CHECK OUT THESE DESIGNS

Design will keep changing to suit the trends, tastes and functionality needs of buyers. We already see it in mobile phones, keyboards and gaming consoles. These creative futuristic product designs are not lost in our daily life: home furniture.

Featured are some futuristic furniture designs that could grace our homes in the not-so-distant future.

For some lucky homeowners, the future is already here. These four futuristic furniture designs are something even the Starship Enterprise would be envious of. Beam me up Scotty!

THE ISLAND

Designed for Scholtes, by renowned Iraqi-born architect Zaha Hadid, this futuristic design features a touchscreen control panel, heating membranes, sound activators, aromatic scent dispensers, LED lights along with a multimedia entertainment system that comes with a flat screen TV and your very own Apple Mac mini.

ASTEROID LAMP

The Asteroid Indoor/Outdoor Lamp designed by Koray Ozgen is a unique space age lamp, which has 24 facets, giving it an asteroid look and the perfect one-of-a-kind lighting source for your home.

HIGH FIDELITY CANOPY

Designed by Edoardo Carlino, this bed is the ultimate sleeper's dream!

Shaped like a metallic box, this elegant and visually stunning sleeping pod is a full-fledged multimedia entertainment system. It includes a reading lamp, a sound system, game console, a HD projector and blinds that enclose you. From the comfort of your bed, you can control everything including your bed's movement.

CLOUD COUCH

Award winning designers David Koo and Zheng Yawei have come up with this revolutionary concept design. Using magnetic force the base will levitate a soft upper cushion. This physics-defying couch could be the perfect place to drift off into dreamland after a long day at work.
